GIS (General Information Services) and PlanetSoft Launch Integrated HR Hiring/ Screening Platform

Las Vegas, May 24, 2004 – GIS (General Information Services) and PlanetSoft today launched a partnership that will produce an integrated recruiting-hiring-screening platform to streamline the employment application and hiring process. This partnership combines best-of-breed technology from the application, hiring and background-screening processes to empower employers to speed the hiring process, hire more qualified employees and to reduce overall hiring costs.

Employers now have the ability to streamline their hiring process with a customizable platform that:

- Provides an online, employment application utilizing reflexive questioning, which employs automated intelligence to dynamically prompt the applicant with additional questions to ensure all needed information is captured.
- Seamlessly integrates the employment application with background-screening tools to avoid re-keying errors, speed the screening process and lower costs
- Automatically populates forms to speed the process and reduce errors
- Links online assessment and applicant screening tools into the process as desired
- Utilizes rules-based, workflow processing based on the employer's hiring rules

“PlanetSoft’s innovative framework and expertise with electronic application origination perfectly complement our background-screening services,” said Ray Conrad, CEO of GIS. “This partnership offers the industry a unique ability to streamline the employment application process. Employers can now reduce processing time in the hiring process, have more control of the hiring process through rules-based processing, have complete visibility into these processes and provide an enhanced user experience for their job applicants.” Sudhir Bajaj, CEO of PlanetSoft, shares that “GIS has established a leadership position in the background screening business.
